GERMANY - April, 1945

This was taken from a tall hill where the 112th Evac. Hospital was at the time. (That's where I spent my first night on the way back to Dijon.) (We stayed in big tents here.)

I don't remember the name of that town down in the valley, but that's the Neckar River. (Notice the big bridge across it all beat up. There's a pontoon bridge just this side of it which isn't visible here.)

Another shot down in the valley of the Neckar from the Evac. Hosp. site.
(It was kinda foggy that morning.)
