BIOGRAPHICAL/HISTORICAL FEATURES:

William C. Foster (1897-1984) served as the first Director of the Arms Control & Disarmament Agency (1962-1968). Much of his career was devoted to issues of arms control and the peaceful use of nuclear power. Prior to his ACDA work, Foster served the government in a number of capacities including Under Secretary of Commerce (1946-1948), and Administrator of the Economic Cooperation Administration (1950-1951). Foster was also a businessman, beginning his career in 1922 with Pressed and Welded Steel Products. After a decade of public service in the 1940s Foster returned to the business world with the Manufacturing Chemists' Association. He was also connected with Olin Mathieson Chemical Company and Detroit Edison.

Scope and Content

The William C. Foster papers span the years 1940-1984. They are arranged by phases of Foster's career and type of material into twelve categories: PERSONAL BUSINESS; AGENCY FILES; SUBJECT FILES; BOARD MEMBERSHIPS; HONORARY DEGREES; SPEECHES, STATEMENTS AND ARTICLES; PRESS SUMMARIES; OFFICE RECORDS; CLIPPINGS; MEMORABILIA AND SCRAPBOOKS; PHOTOGRAPHS; and PRINTED MATERIAL.

There is little material pertaining to Foster's personal life. The parts of the collection most likely to contain such items are PERSONAL BUSINESS, SUBJECT FILES, CLIPPINGS, and MEMORABILIA. The PERSONAL BUSINESS section includes occasional correspondence with Foster's father, brother or son, dealing with family and other personal matters. Box 54 holds a number of magazines and other printed materials which contain biographical information on Foster.

As there are no materials in this collection before 1940 (and, in fact, very little material before 1948), Foster's early business and governmental careers are not treated here. Likewise, Foster's role in the Economic Cooperation Administration is not well documented.

The strength of the Foster Papers is the material on arms control. There are more than thirty boxes of material that in some way relate to arms control. The establishment of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency is well documented, as is Foster's participation in the Eighteen Nation Disarmament Committee. Of special interest in the SUBJECT FILES is material on the Security Resources Panel, or Gaither Committee. Established in April 1947, this group examined the merits of various methods of protecting people from nuclear attack, and studied the deterrent value of weaponry. Foster's speeches and statements also provide much information on arms control matters.
