

"In a war unparalleled in magnitude and in horror, millions of Americans gave their country outstanding service. General of the Army George C. Marshall gave it victory."

—President Harry S. Truman
November 26, 1945

THE GCMF GEORGE C. MARSHALL
FOUNDATION

Summer Teachers Institute

Four-day professional development seminars for secondary school history teachers in historic Lexington, Virginia.

George C. Marshall and World War II

The Summer Teachers Institute includes sessions at the George C. Marshall Research Library (Lexington) and National D-Day Memorial (Bedford, Virginia); presentations by World War II historians; and lesson planning workshops. Ideal for teachers of U.S. History and World History.

"I loved the entire program.... I have never felt as valued as an educator as I have this week. First class all the way."

—Devlin Murphy, Manchester High School,
Richmond, Virginia

Connect and Learn

Teachers may attend one of two sessions: Session 1 (June 17 to 20) or Session 2 (July 8 to 11). By design, each session is small, limited to 14 teachers, to promote collaboration among teachers, historians, archivists, and seminar staff.

Support for Educators

The George C. Marshall Foundation provides lodging, meals, and a travel allowance for all educators. Teachers who complete the 4-day seminar also receive a $400 honorarium and professional development certificate.

Content Experts

Summer Teachers Institute staff include World War II experts such as Bradley Coleman (Marshall Foundation), Kevin Hymel (U.S. Army), M. Houston Johnson (Virginia Military Institute), Frank Settle (Washington & Lee University), and many others.

SCAN HERE

We look forward to seeing you in Lexington in 2024!

Contact Us

📍 P.O. Box 1600, Lexington, Virginia 24450

✉️ education@marshallfoundation.org

🌐 www.marshallfoundation.org